FLORENCE GRISWOLD MUSEUM ANNUAL REPORT 2018

ANNUAL REPORT 2018

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

BY ANY MEASURE 2018 was a memorable year for the Florence Griswold Museum, celebrating both the extraordinary achievements of Jeff Andersen throughout his four decades as Director, as well as the auspicious arrival of Becky Beaulieu as our remarkably creative and energetic new Director. What a privilege it has been to serve as President of the Museum's outstanding Board of Trustees during this year of continued growth and success, and what a pleasure it has been to work in partnership with our visionary new Director. I have watched with admiration as Becky quickly and effectively assumed her leadership role at the Museum and in the community, working with our talented and tireless staff to make the Museum a source of inspiration for local, regional, and national visitors through engaging exhibition and outreach programs, attracting unprecedented numbers of new and supportive audiences.

2018 was also a year that marked the anniversaries of two major milestones in our history. The first was the 40th anniversary of the Museum receiving Accreditation from the American Alliance of Museums in 1978, making it among the first museums in America to meet the rigorous standards of the AAM Accreditation Program. Did you know that of the estimated 33,000 museums in the United States only 1,072 have earned this high honor? Further honor was brought to the Museum when Becky, a longtime AAM Accreditation Peer Reviewer, was named to a five-year term as one of only nine members the national AAM Accreditation Commission, the only representative from a museum in New England. 2018 also marked the 25th anniversary of the Secretary of the Department of Interior's designation of the historic 1817 Griswold House, known to us as Miss Florence's boardinghouse, as a National Historic Landmark, the highest distinction awarded by the National Park Service.

While much has been accomplished in the year just past, untold challenges and opportunities lie before us in the year ahead. We have never been better poised to share our treasures with the public. The uniting of the best of the old with the best of the new offers countless opportunities as we reclaim and reinterpret our historic landscape, add to our superb permanent collection, and provide programs to make our museum one of America's most innovative and engaging museums of art and history.

I am grateful for the imaginative and highly professional work of our entire extraordinarily capable staff, the dedication and countless hours of service of my fellow Board members and legions of volunteers, and the devoted support of each of our members and donors. We are counting on all of you to continue your support and service to our great museum as we work together to accomplish the ambitious goals that will emerge from our strategic planning process. With your help, I am certain that we will sustain our momentum, attain our goals, and maintain the highest standards of the museum profession in all we do to preserve and protect the exquisite landscape, historic buildings, and extraordinary collections entrusted to our care—always striving to share them with our ever-expanding audience of visitors from around the corner and throughout the world.

REPORT OF THE DIRECTOR

2018 WAS A YEAR OF TRANSITION and evolution at the Florence Griswold Museum, a moment to be remembered and celebrated. Following Jeff Andersen's retirement in February after four extraordinary decades as Director, my arrival was humbling and gratifying, with our Museum community offering unwavering encouragement and a hearty welcome. As I reflect on my first year at the Museum, I am in awe of the support you have offered, insights you have shared, and warmth you have imparted. In turn, I am pleased to have the opportunity to chronicle all that has transpired at the Museum in our first year together.

Our exhibition program in 2018 illuminated the strengths of our permanent collection, beginning with Pen to Paper: Artists' Handwritten Letters from the Smithsonian's Archives of American Art, which explored letter-writing as an aesthetic expression of creativity and created a wholly unique lens through which to view the lives of some of our best-known American artists such as Thomas Eakins and Georgia O'Keeffe. The installation at the Florence Griswold Museum augmented the display of letters from the Smithsonian Archives of American Art with selections from our permanent collection as well as the allied exhibition of Lyme Art Colony correspondence P.S. Letters from the Lyme Art Colony, which greatly enhanced the original exhibition. Summer's Art and the New England Farm similarly highlighted the role of artistry in our everyday world, tracing the story of the New England farm from its early establishment and dominance through the advent of industrialization until today's rise of niche farms. The addition of Judy Friday's photography from her publication entitled A Year at Tiffany Farms situated the exhibition in a modern, regionally relevant context that resonated with many of our visitors. The 2018 exhibition program concluded with Paper Trail: American Prints, Drawings, and Watercolors, a rare opportunity to view our collection of works on paper that followed the "paper trail" of the Museum's works on paper from the Colonial era until the present. With special interest in artists' changing approach to the creative process, Paper Trail, like all of our 2018 exhibitions, encouraged our visitors to ponder motivations for and execution of artistic expression, the role of the artist in representing the surrounding world, and the singular perspective of the Museum in telling such stories.

In addition to exhibitions that shed light on the potency and breadth of our collection, our programming continued the trajectory of excellence for which the Museum has become known. We hosted guest lecturers from institutions such as the Smithsonian Archives of American Art and Clark University, and on topics ranging from forensic handwriting analysis to the history of hops and the brewing industry. Workshops on topics such as botanical drawing, film screenings in collaboration with the Katharine Hepburn Cultural Arts Center, Winter Studies, and a variety of other offerings create multiple avenues by which we welcome our audiences. We are pleased to share that our engagement figure has increased 5% in 2018, growing to just over 80,500 visitors and outreach recipients. In addition to our admirably supportive member base, which remains robust at just under 3,000 memberships, we also hosted a large number of non-member attendees that demographically split almost evenly between children and student visitors (37%), adults (33%), and seniors (30%). Such numbers are undoubtedly aided by the enthusiastic response to this year's Wee Faerie Village, which garnered just over 15,000 visitors, as well as the expansion of the Museum's Magic of Christmas, which incorporated extended family programming and our highest attended Christmastime Tea season on record.

The Museum staff, trustees, and community have made our first year together an exceptionally positive one. We look forward to an exciting future abundant with insightful exhibitions, wonderfully engaging and memorable programs and events, and innovative new interpretation that embraces our artistic, cultural, and natural worlds.

THE MUSEUM'S FISCAL YEAR 2018 ended with expenses very close to budget. Public and private grants and business support both met budget, the Annual Benefit and Auction exceeded expectations, and memberships finished ahead of the previous year. Additionally, activities including the Museum Shop, facility rentals, Café Flo, Midsummer Festival, GardenFest, Wee Faerie Village, Winter Studies, and holiday teas all contributed to earned income, which made up almost a quarter of the budget. A decline in admission revenue due to frigid weather in the first quarter, expenses incurred from the leadership transition, and a shift in projected contributed income resulted in an operating deficit.

The Museum's operating costs have remained consistent over the past several years. Administration, Development, Education and Visitor Services were on a par with previous years. There was an increase in Facilities expenses as a result of water system repairs and replacement of copper piping. Curatorial expenses vary more than other departments from year to year according to the nature of the exhibition schedule. Costs for 2018 were less than the prior year, however, because the exhibitions were primarily organized around the Museum's collection rather than loans.

2018 was a down year for the stock market and the Museum's endowment and other restricted funds invested for long-term purposes reflected this with the market value down 6% to $17.2 million at December 31, 2018.

The Museum has weathered the last few years of economic uncertainty through the crucial support of visitors, members, and contributors, and the Finance Department remains dedicated to managing resources to annual projected revenue and ensuring the ongoing stability of the Museum.

THE ROBERT F. SCHUMANN ARTISTS' TRAIL

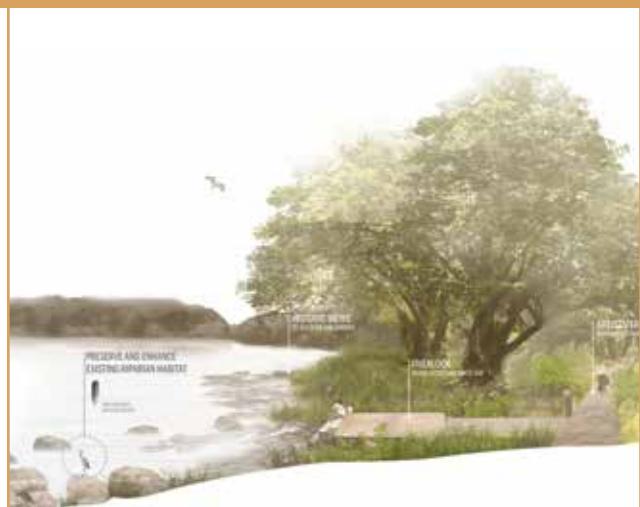

New Artists' Trail Celebrates Art, History, and Nature

A $1 MILLION GRANT from the Robert F. Schumann Foundation has allowed the Museum to engage one of the country's leading design firms, Stephen Stimson Associates Landscape Architects of Cambridge, Massachusetts, to create and implement a Landscape Plan that re-envisioned the 12-acre site. Once completed, visitors will be immersed in a culturally interpretive exploration of the grounds, learning about the site's history and ecology. Robert Schumann was a devoted trustee and patron of the Museum for nearly two decades. We are honored to continue his legacy as an avid naturalist and philanthropist by dedicating the Artists' Trail, a major component of the plan, in his name.

At the turn of the last century, Impressionist painters gathered at Florence Griswold's boardinghouse along the Lieutenant River in Old Lyme to capture the landscape on canvas, forging an art colony that would become the nation's center of American Impressionism. Today, the Florence Griswold Museum celebrates that rich tradition as a nationally accredited museum fostering the understanding of American art, emphasizing the art, history, and landscape of Connecticut. The Museum stands at a pivotal moment in its history. Concurrent with years of visitation growth has been the enlargement of the historic site's footprint, which culminated in 2016 with the Museum's acquisition of the last remaining private parcel of Miss Florence's original estate. It was a long-held goal to fully reunite the historic property that had been sold prior to her death in 1937 and then subsequently subdivided. The land acquisition and Schumann's gift provided the Museum an opportunity to restore the cultural authenticity of Miss Florence's estate.

To ensure that the plan has positive environmental consequences, an Ecological Impact Assessment was prepared by the firm Great Ecology of New York. They concluded that the plan, "strives for balance between cultural and ecological interpretations of the Museum landscape while enhancing, diversifying, and restoring the native landscape." The Museum worked closely with former Audubon Connecticut Executive Director Stewart J. Hudson, whose organization reviewed the project in detail. "Our overall conclusion is that this is a great project and will provide significant ecological benefits to this critical site," stated Hudson. "We believe this project will benefit migratory birds and serve as a great demonstration area for techniques that visitors can take home with them to inspire conservation action in their own yards."

We hope that you visit soon for an experience that interweaves art, history, and landscape in ways rarely found in the museum world. The Trail opens to the public July 22, 2019.

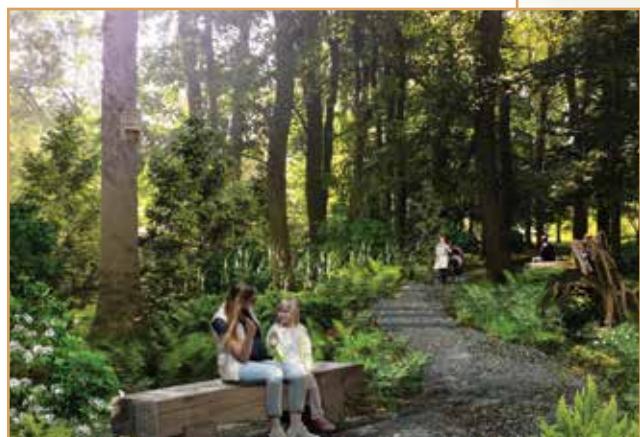

The Overlook

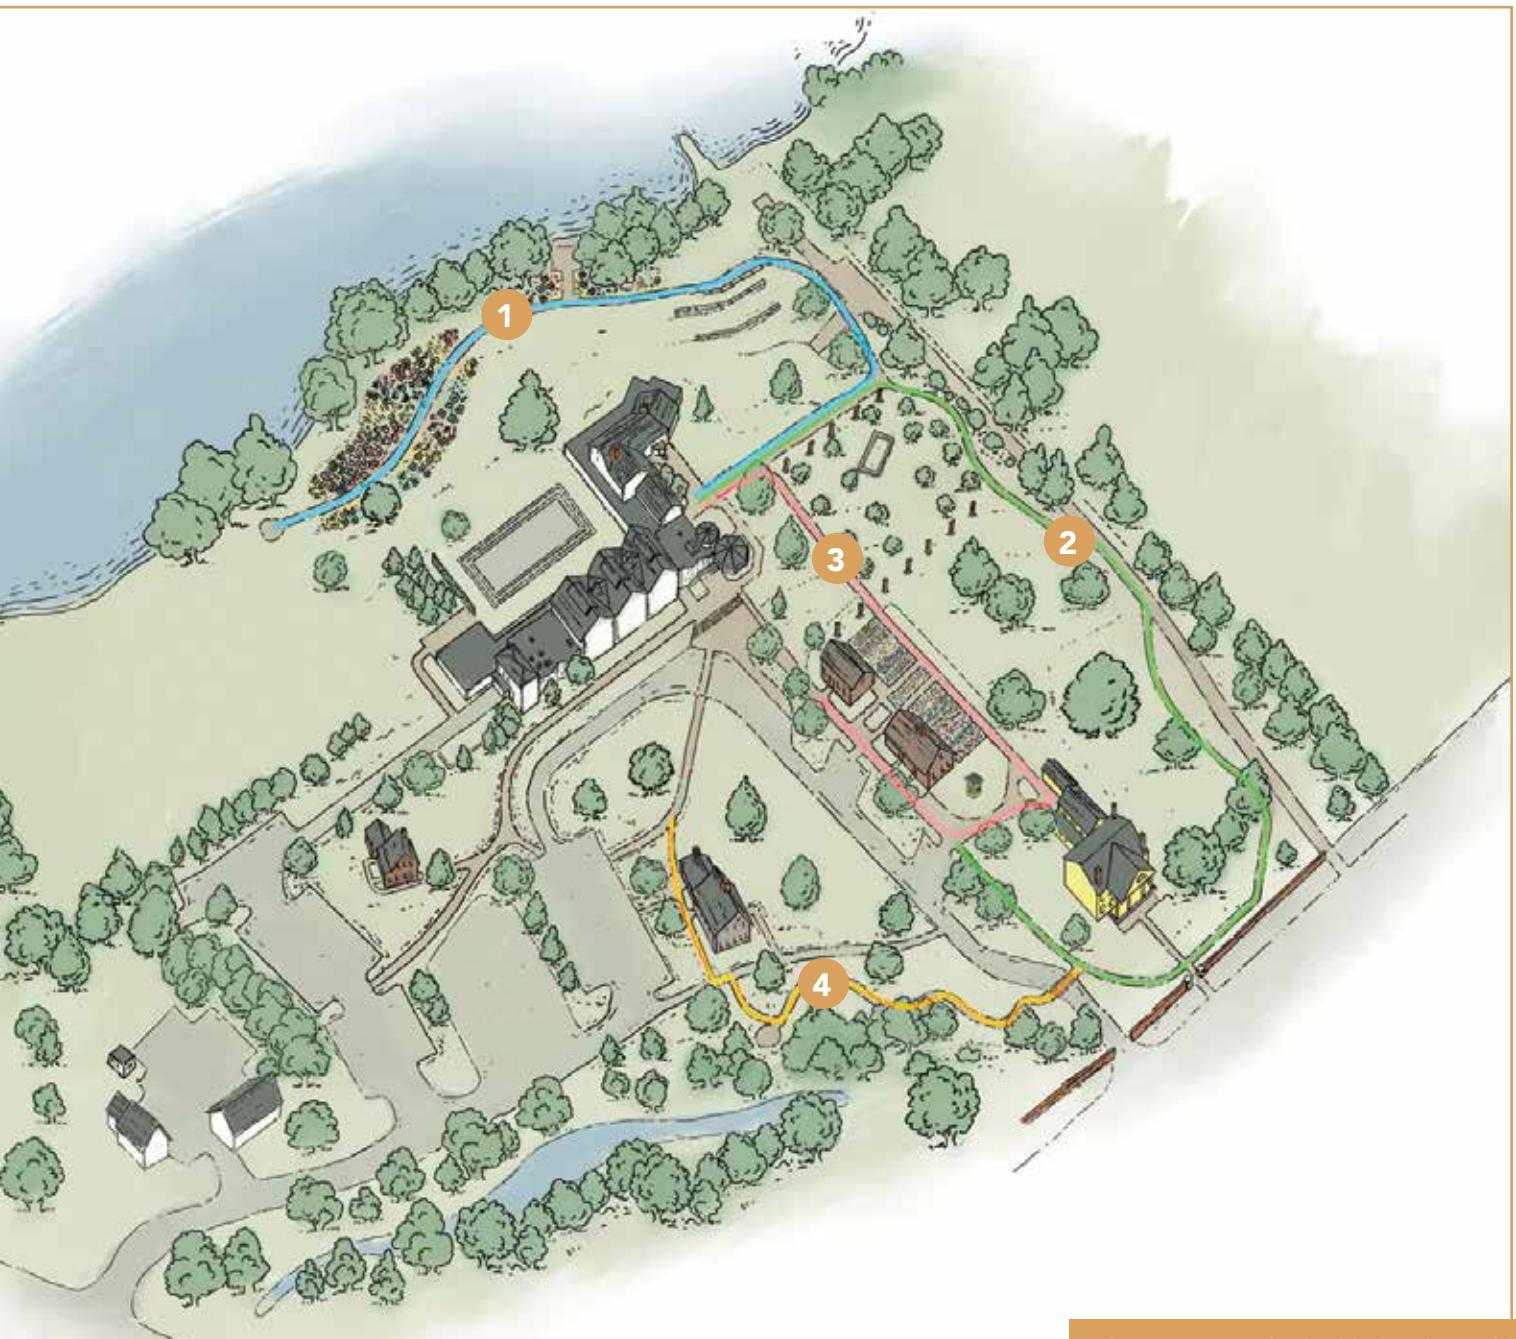

The Event Lawn

The Orchard

The Woodland

The Artists' Trail is highlighted in gold.

1 River Walk: meander along the bank of the Lieutenant River, a subject beloved by Lyme Art Colony painters. Stop at the overlook to view birdlife. Enjoy a terraced lawn, a rainwater garden of native plants, and benches for tranquil contemplation.

2 Hedgerow Walk: wander the path with views of the site of Childe Hassam's painting studio, the apple orchard, and a bird-friendly mix of plantings along an old lane leading to the lawn where artists frolicked in front of the Florence Griswold House.

3 Garden Walk: delight in beds of lush, heritage flowers and vegetables like those Florence Griswold cultivated to serve her artist boarders, with access to the John & Dyanne Rafal Landscape Center and its exhibits detailing historic features and uses of the Lyme landscape.

4 Woodland Walk: stroll the shady path above a stream through the most wooded part of our grounds, an area kept semi-wild during the Art Colony years. Access to the bridge leading to the Lyme Art Association.

We have been to this museum countless times and love it more each time. Here we find intellectual stimulation, visual beauty, new and interesting historical information as well as serenity and reviving tranquility. A wonderful asset to the Connecticut arts scene.

Great Museum. This house became the site of the Old Lyme art colony. The house is fascinating. The artists who roomed there were invited to paint on the different wall and door panels and they are beautiful. The gardens and art museum are great.
