

Make your own set of wings

step-by-step

Supplies Needed

A large piece of white watercolor paper or cardstock 11x15" is best

A pair of scissors

A fine point black sharpie
marker

A pencil

A set of brightly colored markers

Start by folding your paper in half vertically, then using a pencil draw the shape of one half of the set of wings—with a little half circle for the head, go over all lines with black Sharpie and cut out. Unfold to reveal full set of wings.

Now, using your pencil begin to draw in sections to pattern-duplicating each section on both wings, so the left and right match.

keep adding details until both wings are fully sectioned out—leave room all the way around the wings for a black outline.

Now, go over all of your lines with a black sharpie—the outer edge line of the wings all the way around both sides will then be filled in with black sharpie.

Now the real fun begins! Color in all your sections with brightly colored markers—matching each side—this set of wings uses all the colors in the rainbow— you can choose your favorite colors and patterns. Last color in the black body in the very center. Hang up and enjoy!!
